ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF ASSISTANCE

All manuscripts utilizing the data in this codebook and Cd-rom should identify the original collectors of the data. All users are urged to include some adaptation of the following statement in their publication:

The data utilized in this publication were originally collected for the Dutch Parliamentary Election Studies 2012 by Statistics Netherlands and by Henk van der Kolk, Jean Tillie, Patrick van Erkel and Mariken van der Velden on behalf of the Foundation for Electoral Research in the Netherlands (Stichting Kiezersonderzoek Nederland, SKON). These studies have been made possible by grants from Statistics Netherlands, the Dutch Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO), the Ministry of the Interior and Kingdom Relations (BZK), the Department of Political Science, University of Amsterdam and the Department of Public Administration, University of Twente. The original collectors of the data do not bear any responsibility for the analyses or interpretations published here. The data are distributed by DANS Data Archive and Networked Services, The Hague.

In order to provide the funding agencies with essential information about the use of the data that have been collected with their assistance, each user of the data is expected to send two copies of each completed and published manuscript to the distributor of the data:

1 General Information

1.1 Introduction

The first Cabinet of Rutte did not serve its full term and submitted its resignation on April 23, 2012. New elections were held on September 12, 2012. This codebook provides information about the organisation and design of the Dutch Parliamentary Election Study 2012 (DPES 2012) held after this election, and about the contents of the associated data file. The DPES 2012 is the thirteenth in a series of national election studies. Previous studies have been conducted around the parliamentary elections of 1971, 1972, 1977, 1981, 1982, 1986, 1989, 1994, 1998, 2002, 2003, 2006 and 2010¹. Additional information about the DPES series can be found on <http://www.dpes.nl>. The codebook consists of several parts. In this first part general aspects of the DPES 2012 are described. In the second part information about the research design, sample, and the response rates are presented. Part three, which is the largest part of this codebook, contains information about all variables in the data file. Finally, information about the outcome of the 2012 parliamentary elections is presented in part four. Additional information, including a full comparison of all the questions that were asked at every past DPES, can also be found on the internet: <http://www.dpes.nl>.

1.2 Funding

The Dutch Parliamentary Election Study 2012 has been a collaborative enterprise of the Foundation of Electoral Studies in The Netherlands (Stichting Kiezers Onderzoek Nederland; SKON) and Statistics Netherlands. It was made possible by grants from the Dutch Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) and the Ministry of the Interior and Kingdom Relations (BZK). The University of Amsterdam and the University of Twente provided research support in the form of research time of the respective project directors. Statistics Netherlands (Centraal Bureau voor de Statistiek; CBS) donated half of the amount of money needed to carry out this project.

1.3 Organisation

The Dutch Parliamentary Election Study 2012 was conducted by a team of the University of Amsterdam under the auspices of SKON and CBS. The team from SKON consisted of Jean Tillie (study director) and Henk van der Kolk (Chair of SKON), respectively associated with the University of Amsterdam (UvA) and the University of Twente (UT). Statistics Netherlands was represented by Marion van den Brakel-Hofmans, Rik Linssen, Hans Schmeets, and the data-collection division at Statistics Netherlands. This team designed the study and the questionnaires. In 2012 the board of SKON consisted of: Kees Aarts (University of Twente, Chair), Paul Dekker (SCP, Tilburg University), Joop van Holsteyn (Leiden University), Jan Kleinnijenhuis (VU Amsterdam), Henk van der Kolk (University of Twente), Rob Eisinga (Radboud University Nijmegen) and Wouter van der Brug (University of Amsterdam). The fieldwork of the DPES 2012 was carried out by Statistics Netherlands (CBS). The interviews were conducted by CBS's own team of interviewers.

1.4 Global Study Design and Fieldwork (original)

The DPES 2012 consists of two parts: A first round of interviews (CAPI) and a self-completion questionnaire (PAPI). The interviews with respondents were held in the first seven weeks after the elections. After the interview the interviewee obtained a self-completion questionnaire to fill out. About one week after the interview, a new appointment was made in order for the interviewer to collect the questionnaire. This was done in order to increase the PAPI-response. An important difference with earlier versions of the Dutch Parliamentary Election Study is that usually there were two rounds of interviews held, one before and one after the elections. In 2012 the two rounds were put together into one combined round of CAPI-interviews after the elections.

1.5 The questionnaires

The questions in the questionnaires used in the interviews came from four different 'sources'. The first source is the so-called fixed part of the DPES. This part contains topics that are in principle included in all DPES's. It includes variables that have been part of the questionnaire for several years (e.g. party choice, party adherence, political issues, left-right self-placement and candidate evaluations). The second source is the variable part of the DPES. This part contains questions proposed by the study directors and scholars in the field. These questions are mostly part of specific research projects. The third source consists of a variety of social and demographic characteristics, and is referred to as the background part. Both in the variable part and the background part the comparability with questions of the Comparative Study of Electoral Systems (CSES) was observed. These questions, which are part of the fourth source of questions, have been collected in a large number from other countries. This enables an international comparison of voters' attitudes and behaviour. For additional information, see <http://www.cses.org/>

1.6 Data processing and cleaning

Data processing, coding, labelling and cleaning was performed by Statistics Netherlands and the study directors. The coding of most variables was also performed under the supervision of the latter, whereas the information on response and non-response was provided by the former.

1.7 Added variables

The dataset of the Dutch Parliamentary Election Study 2012 does not only include the answers to the questions in the questionnaire, but also contains:

- (1) Coded verbatim answers; the original text of the answers (in Dutch) is contained in the data file.
- (2) Indexes; information about scales and coding schemes are documented together with the variables in this codebook.
- (3) Background variables based on other sources that were available at Statistics Netherlands. These variables serve to "enrich" the dataset.
- (4) Variables related to the type of interview, the length of the interview, etc.

1.8 Privacy protection measures

Several variables have been excluded from the public data file presented in this codebook in order to protect the privacy of individual respondents. Examples are municipality, zip code and the regional newspaper a person is reading. These variables are available for scientific purposes only.

1.9 Additional information that can be found at the Statistics Netherlands

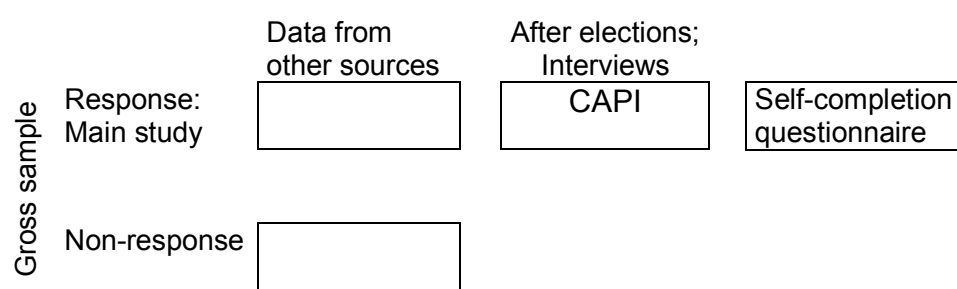

Under certain conditions, Statistics Netherlands' centre for policy related statistics (CvB) facilitates researchers to do their own research on Statistics Netherlands' micro-data files. The DPES-dataset(s) can be linked to various individual-, household- and regional-level statistics which are available at the Social Statistical Database (SSB). Given the strict privacy conditions, these datasets remain in the hands of Statistics Netherlands. Researchers can conduct their own research at one of the Statistics Netherlands' offices in The Hague or Heerlen, or from their own workplace using a secure connection with Statistics Netherlands. More information on micro-data services, procedures, and the costs involved can be found at the following website: <http://www.cbs.nl/en-GB/menu/informatie/beleid/zelf-onderzoeken/default.htm>.

2 Sampling Information, Response and Design

2.1 Research Design

The global design of the DPES 2012 is summarized in Figure 2-1. All boxes in this figure represent a set of variables.

2.1.1 First wave (CAPI)

The Dutch Parliamentary Elections Study is based on a sample of 2750 persons. The respondents were approached in the period of September 13 to October 31, 2012 in their home environment. The goal was to interview as many people as possible and as soon as possible after the election day. A total of 1677 respondents were interviewed during the interview round (see for the responses section 0). This is excluding the 16 interviews that were aborted (not included). The interviews were conducted face-to-face using an electronic questionnaire (Computer Assisted Personal Interviewing; CAPI).

2.1.2 Drop-off questionnaire

At the end of the CAPI-interviews a self-completion questionnaire was handed out to the respondents. They were asked to fill this out, and to make a new appointment with the interviewer for the collection of the drop-off questionnaire. It was returned by a total of 1,490 persons.

2.2 Sampling and sampling frame

For the sampling Statistics Netherlands (CBS) conducted a two-stage procedure: in the first stage the primary units (neighbourhoods) were selected, based on the Gemeentelijke Basis Administratie (GBA). The GBA is the main Dutch civil registry that is continuously being updated by the municipalities. The GBA is also used to compile the voting registry. The neighbourhoods were selected proportionally to the number of persons living in a respective neighbourhood. In the second stage persons from within these neighbourhoods were randomly selected. This way a self-weighting sample was created through a pre-set sample size. This pre-set sample size was at least 1 in order to optimize the national dispersion of the sample.

In order to collect the data, it is important to select more sample persons than in the end can and will be approached. Experience shows that more respondents need to be selected in order to compensate for persons who are part of the institutional population; or were part of earlier CBS samples in the past 12 months; or for whom no or incomplete information was provided by the municipalities. Furthermore it should be taken into account that not all respondents pre-selected will have the Dutch nationality. For these reasons 30% above the number of persons needed to conduct a research-analysis, should be selected. That is why in the first instance the sample consisted of 5200 persons (table 1).²

Off the total gross sample 309 potential respondents fell out because they did not have the Dutch nationality. An additional number of 330 persons were removed, because they were included in another CBS-sample in the last year. Also, persons that belong to the institutional population (3) and persons for whom the municipalities did not provide (complete) names and address data (85), were left out of the sample. Finally, 12 persons were excluded from the sample that live in areas where the CBS does not conduct face-to-face interviews. These are areas in the Bijlmer (Amsterdam) and the islands Vlieland, Terschelling, Ameland, Schiermonnikoog, and Texel.

2.3 Response and non-response

One of the goals of the DPES 2012 was to achieve a high response rate. The recent achievements that Statistics Netherlands made with respect to this goal, were one of the reasons to choose for a cooperation with SKON and CBS.

2.3.1 Measures to reduce non-response

All the interviewers were trained, using an e-learning module. For the benefit of the DPES all the interviewers received extra training in obtaining cooperation for the study as well as refusal conversion techniques.

In order to achieve a high response rate, respondents were carefully contacted. First, the respondents received a letter of introduction. Enclosed with this letter was an incentive – in the form of a gift certificate of 5 EUR – to motivate cooperation. Every respondent was visited at least once during the first half of the observation period of 7 weeks (see above). A card was left behind if the first three house calls were unsuccessful and the respondent was not present.

² Just after the fall of the government, a gross sample of 5200 was drawn. At that point in time, the sample size was chosen to be this large because it was not yet clear whether the Dutch Parliamentary Elections Study would include one or two waves. Eventually, only one wave was included, this is why there is a large surplus in the sample (1711).

After that, the interviewer tried to contact the intended respondent by phone in order to make an appointment for an interview. Meanwhile the interviewer kept visiting the address. An address could only be labelled as a definite 'no contact' after six idle visits.

Respondents of the interviews were asked to fill in a self-completion questionnaire; thereafter a new appointment was made for the interviewer to collect the drop-off questionnaire in person.

2.3.2 Response rates

The following tables contain information about the response and non-response of the interviews and the self-completion questionnaire.

2.3.3 Correcting for non-response; weights

In order to correct for (partial) non-response several weights have been created (wgt1 up to and including wgt2d in the data file). One difference between the various weights is the type of questionnaire included in the construction of the weight (only respondents participating in the CAPI interview, or only respondents participating in the CAPI interview and the drop-off questionnaire) and the inclusion of turnout and voting behaviour (yes or no, and party choice).

The weighting procedure has been carried out using Bascula³: using linear weighting as the weighting method. The weighting produces a set of weights that are minimally adjusted from the inclusion weights according to a quadratic criterion, whereas matching the population totals of the background variables is used in the linear weighting model.

In line with a model used for the DPES in 1971-2010, following characteristics were considered for inclusion⁴:

- Gender (M/F);
- Age (18-24; 25-34; 35-44; 45-54; 55-64; 65-74; 75+);
- Degree of urbanization (very high, high, medium, low, very low);
- Region (North, West, East, South);
- The 'Country of origin' (Dutch background; Western background; Non-western background)
- Marital Status (married, divorced, widow(er); never been married);
- Voting behaviour (VVD, PvdA, PVV, CDA, SP, D66, GroenLinks, CU, SGP, Partij voor de Dieren, 50Plus, other, non-voters);

3. Documentation of Variables

3.1 Guide to the documentation of variables

All variables in this section are documented in the same format. Several types of information are distinguished (notes 1 to 7). In the example each type is represented by means of numbers in superscript. Of course, not all types of information apply to each variable.

V402¹ Poll results: Influence on party choice

Did these polls influence your decision to vote or not to vote very strongly; a little; or not at all?²

Hebben deze peilingen uw keuze om wel of niet te gaan stemmen sterk beïnvloed; een beetje beïnvloed; of helemaal niet beïnvloed?

- 1 Variable name. The variable name in this example is V402. A unique variable name has been assigned to each of the variables in the data file.
- 2 Translation of original question. The original Dutch question text is documented just after the translation.
- 3 Additional information. Information about the variable, the construction of the variable and/or reference to the place where such information can be found. In this case, the reader is informed about the specific routing used.
- 4 Value labels. Value used to store information in the data file.
- 5 PA (Panel attrition). The respondents of the interviews who did not respond to the self-completion questionnaire received code 994 for questions asked in this part of the main study.
- 6 INAP (Inapplicable due to routing). Code 995 indicates inapplicable as a result of questionnaire routing. The routing is explained on top of the table.
- 7 DK (Don't know)/ NA (No answer). All respondents who answered 'don't know' received the code 998. If a respondent refused to give an answer or if no answer was recorded by the interviewer code 998 was assigned as well.

Government Policy

v090 Effect government policy on economic situation

Next, I would like to ask a few questions about what you think of the policies that this government has conducted. First, the economic situation of the Netherlands: do you think that the economic situation has been influenced favorably; unfavorably; or neither by the government policies?

Vervolgens zou ik u een aantal vragen willen stellen over het gevoerde regeringsbeleid van het kabinet Rutte. Allereerst de economische toestand van Nederland: denkt u dat de economische toestand door het gevoerde regeringsbeleid gunstig, ongunstig, of niet gunstig maar ook niet ongunstig is beïnvloed?

Political Issues: Income Differences

v100 Income Difference - position of CDA

Some people think that the differences in incomes in our country should be increased. Others think that they should be decreased. How would you place the CDA on a line from 1 to 7, where 1 means differences in income should be increased and 7 means that differences in income should be decreased?

Sommige mensen vinden dat de verschillen in inkomen in ons land groter moeten worden. Anderen zijn van mening dat ze kleiner moeten worden. Natuurlijk zijn er ook mensen met een mening die daar tussenin ligt. Waar zou u het CDA plaatsen op een lijn van 1 tot en met 7, waarbij de 1 betekent dat inkomensverschillen groter moeten worden en de 7 dat ze kleiner moeten worden?

v401 Frequency of encountering poll results

Prior to the elections many opinion polls are held to discover how people are planning to vote. How often during the last weeks before the parliamentary elections have you noticed such polls in the newspapers or on radio and television?

Voorafgaand aan verkiezingen worden nogal eens opiniepeilingen gehouden om er achter te komen wat mensen van plan zijn te gaan stemmen. Hoe vaak bent u in de laatste weken voor de Tweede-Kamerverkiezingen uitlagen van opiniepeilingen tegengekomen in de krant en op de radio en televisie?

v510 Euthanasia - position of CDA

Some people think that euthanasia should always be forbidden. Other people think that euthanasia should be possible if the patient asks for this. Of course there are also people who have an opinion that lies in between. Where would you place the CDA on a line from 1 to 7; 1 meaning euthanasia should be forbidden and 7 meaning euthanasia should be possible?

Sommige mensen vinden dat euthanasie altijd verboden moet zijn. Anderen vinden dat euthanasie mogelijk moet zijn als de patiënt daarom vraagt. Natuurlijk zijn er ook mensen met een mening die daar tussenin ligt. Waar zou u het CDA plaatsen, waarbij de 1 betekent dat euthanasie moet worden verboden en de 7 dat euthanasie mogelijk moet zijn?
